

Child Maltreatment in Mecklenburg County

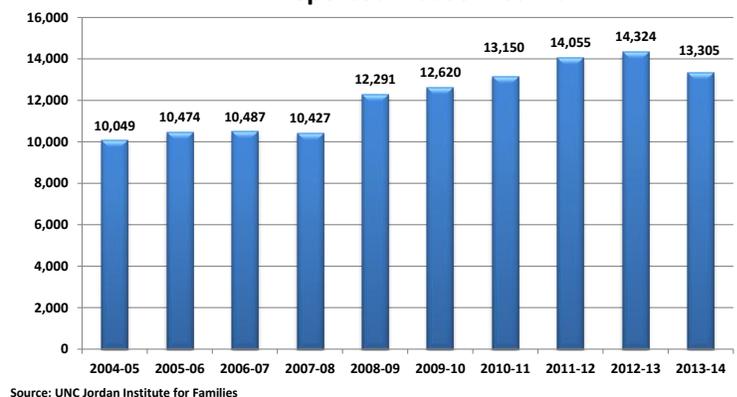

Executive Summary

One of the most significant issues concerning child welfare is abuse and neglect. During the 2013-14 fiscal year, 13,305 children, or 5.4% of all children under age 18, were reported abused or neglected in Mecklenburg County; down from 14,324 in fiscal year 2012-13. This was the first decrease since 2004-05. Reporting abuse or neglect is not only essential, it is mandatory. North Carolina law mandates that any person or institution who suspects that a child is abused, neglected, or dependent must make a report to the county department of social services. Despite this mandate, child maltreatment is largely underreported. To ensure every child's safety, the community needs to be educated on child abuse, signs exhibited by a child who is abused, and ways to intervene. To better educate the community, CFCR compiles information on maltreatment annually. Key findings from the 2015 edition are outlined below.

Key Findings:

- Despite the recent decrease, the number of children reported maltreated has increased 32.4%, or 3,256 children, since 2004-05.
- In 2013-14, 51% (6,748) of reports involved children who were reported maltreated for a second, third, or more times
- Children under age 6 accounted for more than 40% of initial child abuse and neglect reports in 2013-14. This group consistently accounts for the greatest number of reports.
- Despite making up 29.2% of the child population, more than 60% of child maltreatment reports involved African American children.
- In 2013-14, there were 1,086 children in DSS custody. The number of children in foster care has declined more than 39% since it peaked 2007-08. The steady decline in the number of children taken into custody reflects a 2008 change in the federal law requiring DSS to invest in families to address maltreatment prior to removal.
- Of the 13,305 reports, 2,149 (16%) were considered substantiated. A report is substantiated if a claim of abuse, neglect, or dependence is verified by DSS. In fiscal year 2003-04, North Carolina implemented a multiple response system involving two assessment tracts, investigative and family assessments, which are selected based on the type of allegation being reported. Currently, the number of substantiated reports equals the sum of six categories: abuse, neglect, abuse & neglect, dependency, services needed, and services provided-no longer needed.

Reported Abuse Victims

Source: UNC Jordan Institute for Families

Protecting children is the responsibility of every adult.

If there is a concern, it needs to be reported to Youth Family Services at 704.336.CARE (2273).

Council for Children's Rights

Sources: Population data found in this report is from the US Census Bureau Population Estimates Division: U.S. Census Bureau: Population Estimates 2011. (2013) 1 March 2015. <<http://www.census.gov/popest/>>. Child maltreatment and foster care data used in this report is from UNC Chapel Hill Jordan Institute for Families, part of the UNC School of Social Work. Data is found through the Management Assistance for Child Welfare, Work First, and Food and Nutrition Services in North Carolina and is available for all counties in North Carolina.